

SOUTHERN ILLINOIS UNIVERSITY AT CARBONDALE SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK

COURSE SYLLABUS FOR SOCW 478 SOCIAL POLICY AND SOCIAL SERVICE SYSTEM IN EGYPT May 16th – 28th, 2010

Course Credit: This is an elective 3 hour course for undergraduate and graduate students in human service majors (social work, health ed., rehabilitation, education, psychology, sociology) and other related disciplines.

Course Instructor:
Hussein Soliman, PhD
Professor
Quigley #6: Rm
Carbondale, IL. 62901-4329
Phone: 618 453-5358
Email: soliman@siu.edu

I. COURSE OVERVIEW

This elective course helps students to better understand social service planning and delivery by exposing them to an entirely different cultural, political, and religious system of social policies and social service programs developed to solve societal problems and to address the needs of various groups (children, families, youth, the elderly) in Egypt.

By traveling, observing and learning the actual planning, implementation and evaluation of social service programs within a different culture, students will be able to determine the nature of social problems and how other factors may contribute to their existence. For example, students will be able to observe the process of providing care for special population i.e. the disabled, the delinquent adolescent, those with health and mental health needs, and the elderly. This will provide students with a new understanding of the characteristics of social service programs and the factors contributing to its delivery which will be considered as part of their evaluation of these programs.

II. COURSE OBJECTIVES

- a. Course objectives: At the end of the course, students will be able to achieve the following:
  1. understand the influence of cultural factors on the basic foundation of social policy;
  2. identify the ways other societies address the needs of people using a different service delivery system;
  3. learn about the influence of traditions, religious, and historical experiences on the development of social policy;
  4. develop the ability to extend the parameters of their 'professional and personal paradigm' in assessing the value of social services in addressing societal needs;

5. examine the impact of social programs on people's lives;
6. develop the ability to communicate with human service providers from other cultures as a way of creating new understanding of their views of social services;
7. understand how social policies influence people's lives within a different social and cultural context; and,
8. appreciate and understand people with different cultural, religious, value system, and life experiences.

III. COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Students will be oriented to Egypt using a variety of methods including: short meetings; reading materials; and, a website with links for internet information and reference materials. A package has been prepared to help students understand the context of the study abroad experience and will be distributed to the students prior to traveling. Participation in field visits and lectures is required.

Lectures, class discussion, agency visits, observation of service delivery, reading materials, interaction with students, instructors and supervisors, and, seminar discussion time will be used.

Textbook: A packet of reading materials will be provided for each participant that reviews the role of international social work and materials specific to Egypt and the Middle East.

Evaluation:

A variety of evaluation methods will be used to determine the final assessment of student understanding (i.e., grade). These methods will include:

1. Journal report: students' daily reaction and summary of their views,
2. impressions and feedback on field visits, lectures and other course activities;
Students' participation: Students attendance and participation in the open discussion and meetings will be assessed as a means of reinforcing and enhancing the understanding of course experiences and materials;
3. Final paper: Students will prepare a final paper which reflects their understanding and comprehension of the course materials and their assessment of the course objectives; and,
4. Group review: Students will participate in a final seminar session to provide their reactions to the course activities and experiences.

Grades for course credit will be given based on:

Daily journal 25 %
Student participation 25 %
Final paper 40 %
Summary seminar 10 %

Expectations and assignments:

Both graduate and undergraduate students' grades will be given based on the same assignments. However, graduate students will be expected to exhibit an advanced level of participation and knowledge. It is anticipated that each of their assignments will be more 'in depth' and that they will provide some leadership in directing and contributing to discussions.

IV. COURSE PROGRAM IMPLEMENTATION:

1. understand the influence of cultural factors on the basic foundation of social policy, reading materials, question and answer session
2. identify the ways other societies address the needs of people using different delivery system, visiting programs, observation of service delivery, lecture;
3. learn about the influence of traditions, religion and historical experience on the development of social policy;
4. develop the ability to understand different paradigm in assessing the value of social services in addressing societal needs;
5. examine the impact of social programs on people's lives;
6. develop the ability to communicate with human service providers from other Culture;
7. understand how social policies influence people's lives within different social Context; and
8. appreciate and understand people of different culture, religion, value system and life experiences.

References

- Abu Almati, M. (2005). 'Quality of social work education and practice: Between reality and expectation of modernization' The Eighteenth Annual Social Work Conference- Helwan University, Cairo- Egypt.
- Abu Baker, S. (1997). Introduction to Social Work. Egypt: The Commerce and Cooperation Publishers.
- Ahmadi, N. (2003). Globalization of consciousness and new challenges for international social work. International Journal of Social Welfare 12:14-23.
- Alphones, M., George, P., & Moffatt, K. (2008). 'Redefining social work standards the context of globalization: Lessons from India' International Social Work, 51(2): 145-158.
- Chou, Y., Haj-Yahia, M., Wang, F., & Fu, L. (2006). Social Work in Taiwan: A historical and critical review. International Social Work, 49(6) 767-778.
- Council on Social Work Education. (2004). Educational Policy and Accreditation Standard, Washington, USA.
- Estes, R. (1992). Internationalizing Social Work Education: A guide to Resources for New Century. University of Pennsylvania (WWW document, <http://caster.ssw.upenn.edu/~intl.html>).
- Gray, M., & Fook, J. (2004). The Quest for a Universal Social Work: Some Issues and Implications. Social Work Education, 23( 5): 625–644.
- Healy, M. (1992). Introducing International Development Content in the Social Work Curriculum. Washington, DC: NASW Press.
- Hoefler, R. (1996). A conceptual model ofr studying social welfare policy comparatively. Journal of Social Work Education, 32(1): 101-113.
- Mary, N., & Morris, T. (1994). The future and social work: A global perspective. Journal of Multicultural Social Work, 3(4): 89-101.
- Midgley, J. (1990). International social work: Learning from the Third World. Social Work, 35: 295-301.
- Mokhtar, A. (2006). Indicators for quality social work education. The Nineteenth Annual Conference: Helwan University, Cairo- Egypt.
- Noble, C. (2004). Social Work Education, Training and Standards in the Asia–Pacific Region. Social Work Education, 23( 5): 527–536.

Osman & Others. (1985). Introduction to Social Work. The Angelo Egyptian publishers, Cairo, Egypt.

Pogge, T. (2005). World poverty and human rights. Ethics International Affairs, 19(1).

Room, R. & Rosenqvist, P. (1999). Drugs in a global perspective: The international control system's best foot forward. Addiction Research, 7(3), 177-192.

Sewpaul, V., & Lombard, A. (2004). Social Work Education, Training and Standards in Africa. Social Work Education, 23(5): 537-544.

Soliman, H. (2007). Social work education in Egypt: Challenges and search for modernization. The 20th Social Work Conference, Faculty of Social Work- Helwan University- Cairo, Egypt.

_____ (2007). Is there a need for a council on social work education in Egypt. The 20th International Scientific Conference of Social Work, Faculty of Social Work- Helwan University, March 11 – 12. Cairo, Egypt.

Tasse, A. (2008). Social work education in China: Development and perspective. International Social Work, 51(1): 123-124.